

Fenerate Consulting Adapts its Legal Structure

Fenerate Consulting, a top boutique business and management consulting firm, adapts its business legal structure to Fenerate Consulting, Inc. to match increased business requirements and anticipated growth.

New York, NY – March 28, 2014 – Fenerate Consulting, Inc. today announced that its board of directors has decided to align its business and legal structure to Fenerate Consulting (under Section 402 of the Business Corporation Law, New York State, Department of State) to meet its business requirements and anticipated growth. The ownership of the company, as well as its board of directors, will remain unchanged.

This new legal organization will allow Fenerate Consulting to adapt to its fast growing client base as well as adjust to increased business requirements. Today's Fenerate client base is covering industry segments such as semiconductor equipment manufacturers, financial services, and automotive suppliers. Services and solutions provided to their small to mid-sized clients cover all corporate functions from business technology and innovation to logistics and supply chain management.

Fenerate Consulting is a top boutique business and management consulting firm headquartered in New York City with a branch in Zug, Switzerland. Fenerate operates primarily in the United States and Europe, serving small to mid-sized companies as well as start-ups. The service offerings comprise strategy and business consulting, strategy execution, implementation support, transformation management, and competency development.

For further information please visit www.fenerate.com or contact Fenerate Consulting directly.

Contact Information

Andreas Mulchi, CEO & Managing Partner
Fenerate Consulting, Inc.
245 York Avenue, 39th Floor
New York, NY 10167

212.208.6708 (Office)
welcome@fenerate.com
www.fenerate.com